

Suzanne Danhauer, PhD

Dr. Suzanne Danhauer is an Associate Professor and Vice Chair in the Department of Social Sciences & Health Policy in the Division of Public Health Sciences, and holds a joint appointment in the Department of Internal Medicine, Section on Hematology and Oncology in the Wake Forest School of Medicine. She is the Associate Director of Research for the Center for Integrative Medicine, Co-Editor-in-Chief of Global Advances in Health & Medicine (the journal of the Academic Consortium for Integrative Medicine & Health), and a member of National Cancer Institute Symptom Management & Health-Related Quality of Life Steering Committee. Dr. Danhauer is also the former Associate Director of the Office of Women in Medicine & Science in the Wake Forest School of Medicine.