Muscle Quantity and Bone Mineral Density Effects on Injury and Outcomes in Female versus Male Older Adult Motor Vehicle Crash Occupants

Conclusions

- Significant results allow for both injury and outcome predictions between sexes.
- CT scans can be used opportunistically to screen musculoskeletal health of trauma patients & ultimately enhance rehabilitation.

William Armstrong1, Casey Costa1, Luis Poveda1, Anna N. Miller2, Alexander Ambrosini1, Fang-Chi Hsu3, Bahram Kiani4, R. Shayn Martin4, Joel D. Stitzel1, Ashley A. Weaver5

1 Department of Biomedical Engineering, Wake Forest School of Medicine; 2 Department of Orthopedic Surgery, Washington University School of Medicine; 3 Department of Biostatistics and Data Science, Wake Forest School of Medicine; 4 Department of Radiology, Wake Forest School of Medicine; 5 Department of Surgery, Wake Forest School of Medicine