

Wake Forest University
School of Medicine

Brenner
Children's
WAKE FOREST BAPTIST HEALTH

Training in Research Affecting Child Health (TRAC)

Application Deadline: Friday, January 10, 2025

Program Start: Wednesday, May 28, 2025

An exciting opportunity to engage in an innovative program that offers a unique child health and development research experience focused on a topic that matters to you.

WHO CAN APPLY: Undergraduate, medical, and graduate students, residents, fellows

WHERE: Wake Forest University School of Medicine, Winston-Salem, NC (in person)

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Eight weeks of an in-person, paid internship
- Autonomously design your research project under guidance of a faculty mentor
- Near-Peer Coach Mentoring (NPCM)©
- Develop research skills emphasizing independence and critical thinking
- Pediatrics-specific skills course and career-enhancing activities
- Present a poster at the Summer Research Symposium
- Continue to be involved in research after the summer to see your project to completion

PROGRAM GOALS: Abstract submission; Attend a scientific meeting;
Submission of a first-authored manuscript

LEARN MORE AT:

<https://school.wakehealth.edu/departments/pediatrics/training-in-research-affecting-child-health>

APPLY HERE: <https://redcap.link/TRAC2025APPLICATION>

2024 TRAC Summer Participants

QUESTIONS? Email: TRAC@wakehealth.edu