REQUESTED MATERIALS FOR BODY DONATION

Thank you so much for your interest and for your intended support of medical education through whole body donation at Wake Forest University School of Medicine.

The enclosed documents outline the steps for healthcare providers, family members and funeral directors to follow a prospective donor’s wish to donate at the time of death.

There is no requirement to submit any paperwork directly to our program prior to the occurrence of death.

If your contact regards a prior application for pre-registry, we very much appreciate the commitment to make a positive difference in healthcare. Our process for pre-registry has updated to align with changes in state regulations.

The materials in this packet outline the process for donation. To best prepare healthcare providers and/or next of kin to proceed at the occurrence of death, you may provide them with copies of these materials.

Every potential donor who meets current criteria at the time of contact will be accepted for donation, with authorized signature from legal next of kin. Every contact will require assessment with healthcare personnel regardless of the status of prior pre-registry.

Program staff is available twenty-four hours a day for contact to assess a potential donation. The enclosed checklist includes information to reach our on-call staff around the clock, every day of the year.

Our printed packet includes a wallet card that will provide immediate direction for healthcare providers and/or next of kin to follow a prospective donor’s wishes at the occurrence of death. To request a printed packet, please contact our program office at 336-716-4369 or bodydonation@wakehealth.edu.

We very much appreciate the generosity in your efforts toward better outcomes in healthcare.

With sincere gratitude,

FREQUENT QUESTIONS ABOUT BODY DONATION

Is pre-registry required? No, there is no requirement for pre-registry in our program. At the time a death occurs, we are able to conduct a brief assessment by telephone and provide a response within the same phone call. Program staff is available around the clock to receive calls for assessment and return an immediate decision. The only required documentation is a one page consent form that must be executed by the legal next of kin and requires signature after the time of death.

Every prospective donor who meets current criteria at the occurrence of death will be accepted for donation with assessment by qualified healthcare personnel and signature of consent from legal next of kin. We are available for that contact around the clock, every day of the year.

What is the benefit in planning ahead for whole body donation if there is not a requirement to do so? Engaging in conversation with family members and sometimes with healthcare providers can better prepare everyone to understand and fulfill a donor’s wishes. In most circumstances, the disposition of the body will ultimately be at the discretion of the next of kin or assigned representative(s). Providing documents ahead of time that explain the intent to donate will prepare family and next of kin with materials that help them understand and direct the process for donation. Discussing the choice in advance may also lift the responsibility and difficulty that family members can face in making these choices for a loved one. Our program puts resources within reach that will help the next of kin and/or assigned representative(s) navigate the process and honor a donor’s wish to participate.

Will there be a cost to the donor’s family to participate in our program? The only costs associated with donating a body to Wake Forest University School of Medicine involve transportation to the facility. These costs vary based on each family’s particular needs and distance from the facility, as arranged with a private funeral or transport service. At the conclusion of study, there is no cost to the family for cremation or for return of the cremated remains. Dispersal of ashes in accordance with state guidelines is also offered at no cost if there is no request for return of the cremated remains.

Will a donation be refused if a donor is identified as a live organ donor with DMV? With the exception of corneas, any organs removed postmortem would disqualify a body for donation to our program. However, many donors choose to retain both designations. This preserves the chance for a life-sustaining gift that provides immediate benefit and leaves open the possibility for anatomical donation if there is no match with a living organ donation. The only way to be certain that a body would direct first to our program would be to remove the living organ donor identification from the DMV registry.

Will a donor’s family be able to find out more about any particular illness or specific genetic condition(s) after donation? The nature of our study is not oriented toward diagnostic findings. The students in our programs are learning the structures and systems of the human body, and while every condition will enrich their understanding, there is no record that would identify a particular donor’s history or condition(s). Every donor’s contribution will greatly enrich the preparation of providers to deliver the best care possible for their patients.

Who can answer additional questions? You can reach our program office Monday through Friday at 336-716-4369 with questions about participation in our program. For contact with a death that occurs outside regular business hours, our on-call staff can be contacted through the Atrium Health Wake Forest Baptist system operator at 336-716-2011.
